

New Funds Will Incorporate Traditional Investment Management Approach and Multi-Manager Format Into Active ETFs

SAN FRANCISCO, CA -- 01/15/09 -- Grail Advisors, an innovator in the development and distribution of active Exchange Traded Funds (ETFs), has filed a registration statement for two new actively managed ETFs, the Grail American Beacon Large Cap Value ETF and the Grail American Beacon International Equity ETF. The funds represent the industry's first actively-managed ETFs in the equity space using traditional active management.

Both funds will be sub-advised by American Beacon Advisors, Inc. of Fort Worth, Texas, a firm noted for its 'manager-of-managers' approach to portfolio construction. American Beacon, which oversees more than $37 billion* in equity and fixed-income assets, expects to manage the new Grail Advisor offerings in substantially similar fashion to the American Beacon Large Cap Value and American Beacon International Equity strategies.

"These funds are an enormous leap forward in the evolution of ETFs," said William M. Thomas, CEO of Grail Advisors LLC. "We have captured a unique opportunity to deliver real active portfolio management in an ETF structure that provides more transparency than traditional mutual funds. Grail Advisors wants to set itself apart by offering actively-managed products driven by fundamental analysis, as opposed to simple index or enhanced index ETFs."

Grail Advisors will serve as the funds' Manager and intends to operate both of the new ETFs as actively managed, multi-manager ETFs. The funds, similar to traditional mutual funds and unlike other active-equity ETFs in the marketplace, will allow portfolio managers unrestricted trading. American Beacon Advisors, the first of which Grail Advisor executives expect to be a premier list of sub-advisor relationships, will be responsible for allocating day-to-day portfolio management decisions for each ETF among one or more investment managers.

"We are delighted to be out in front of the investment industry with Grail Advisors," said William F. Quinn, chairman of American Beacon Advisors. "These new funds are the first to combine the kind of fundamental, active management we perform at American Beacon with ETFs, an investment vehicle that provides many benefits to marketplace participants today."

Grail Advisors' approach resolves the disclosure issue that has previously challenged the introduction of actively managed ETFs. The new funds' portfolio holdings will be publicly disseminated on the Grail Advisors website each day the funds are open for business. "Investors of all types are coming to expect this level of reporting," said Mr. Thomas. "Daily transparency is one of the major components to our strategy."

The two funds will represent the first of what are anticipated to be a series of offerings of the Grail Advisors ETF Trust. The San Francisco-based firm intends to make the benefits of ETFs available to the large pool of investors who currently select traditional mutual funds or other vehicles to access active portfolio management. Mr. Thomas says Grail Advisors is currently in discussions with a number of leading financial institutions and asset managers and expects to launch a number of customized, actively-managed ETFs this year.
